Nationals Draft Outsielder Rondeau From the Minneapolis Club

You Can't Imagine the Opportunities You Are Missing in This Perkins Sale.

In the first place the fall and winter's wardrobe needs are before youand the reductions I have made in the prices are more than extravagant. They are positive sacrifices. It'll soon be over-but don't wait until the assortments are gone—and sizes get all shot to pieces. Now's the time.

the first inning all right, but after he had walked Gandil and Acosta in the second he was yanked and Earl Hamilton substituted. Williams greeted Hamilton with a single, which broke through Howard's hands and filled the bases. Sawyer struck out, and then Hamilton uncorked a wild pitch, which sent Gandil home with the first run of the game. Hamilton pitched effectively from this out until the sixth, when he had a peculiar experience, being hit for five infield hits, which netted one through Pratt. Milan pulled a bunt past the pitcher and beat it out. Gandil laid a bunt down the third base line, and by the time Hamilton got it to first Gandil was over the bag. This filled the bases. Mayer was sent in to bat for Acosta, and he hit a weak grounder to Howard. who by a quick throw forced Foster at the

Williams followed with a single which sent Milan home, the ball being hit too hard for Lavan to handle, though he did not have to take more than a step or two to intercept it. Sawyer fanned, but McBride got a single to Lavan's right, which the latter could not get to first in time to nail George, the eighth, but was not allowed score, and in the ninth "Tillie" Walker doubled and Howard and Pratt singled, giving the Browns their brace of runs.

HENRI RONDEAU IS DRAFTED BY MANAGER GRIFFITH

more one-sided, for the two runs the visitors obtained were gifts in the ninth, when Johnson had an eight-run lead, and did not exert himself in an effort to end the game.

Branch Rickey used four pitchers. He started with Clarence Sims, who halls from Charleston, Ohio. Sims got out of the first inning all right, but after he bility to handle bunts.

Either Doc Ayers or Joe Boehling is slated to pitch against the Browns this afternoon. Manager Griffith will not make up his mind as to the twirling selection until he has seen the two pitchers warm up. Ayers has shown by far the best form of late, and it is not unlikely he will be shoved in against the Browns, a team against which he always has been more or less effective.

Kopp, the St. Thomas outfielder, is showing so much ability in practice in the infield that Griffith figures there is a chance of making a second baseman out of him. Kopp is a natural hitter and a fast man on his feet, but it is questionable if his throwing arm is good enough to allow him to play the outfield in the major leagues.

Kopp has been practicing around second base of late, and he has caught Griffith's eye. The youngster handles

Henri Rondeau is again a member of a hitter might be just the man to develop there.

Had the score been such that Johnson would have been forced to go at top speed right to the finish the Browns would have made decidedly few hits. Up to the eighth they had but one hit, a double by Pratt in the fourth, but when the locals gained a comfortable lead Johnson no longer exerted himself and allowed four more hits. That is one thing about Johnson, he cares little about making records. He likes to win, but when this has been accomplished he always remembers that it is policy to save his arm.

Lavan's right. which the latter could not get to first in time to nail George, and while this play was going on Gandill scored. This gave the Griffmen a total of three runs.

Hamilton then retired and Allen Sothoron, from the Wichita Western League club, took up the task on the mound, the Griffmen securing four runs in this inning without making a single hit. Allen was wild as a March hare, however, and did not last long, Shanks, the first man to face him, got a life of the club which has strength enough to win the pennant without resorting to any rough methods. Speaker appeared to deliberately resorting to any rough methods. Speaker appeared to deliberately spike John Henry in a recent series in Boston when there was substituted. He uncorked a wild pitch, sending home another run, and on Williams' sacrified fly to center the fourth run of the inning came home. In the meantime the Browns had one hit off. the Nationals. The leading batter of the American Association has been drafted by the Washington club. It was the only draft which Manager Griffith filed with the national commission, and, incidentally, Rondeau is the only player who can be drafted from the Minneapolis club, for class double A clubs cannot lose more than one man by the draft.

Rondeau, after leaving here, made a most remarkable batting record in the association. Within a month he jumped to the front, and he now is leading that league with a percentage of nearly .400. His hitting has been largely responsible for the success of the Millers, which team is now in front, and is pretty sure to land

With a lead of five and one-half games, the Phillies seem destined to land the National League pennant, for which they have been leading nearly the entire season. The effort of those interested in the game in fort of those interested in the game in that city to convince the public that that city to convince the public that on entering the town.

Regardless of which team may win the American League pennant, if the Phillies get far enough in front so they can rest up Alexander. Moran stands a great chance of making his team the world champions. If during the last week of the season the great pitcher will not be needed to win the pennant, he can get himself fit to do some strennous work in the world series, for by that time the chances are the hot spell will be over and Alexander is at him that time the chances are the hot spell will be over and Alexander is at his best when the weather is cool.

When the great pitcher is in form no club will take many liberties with him. But it remains to be seen if the Phillies lead will be such that Alexander can break the American League base-runging into the big series.
